Irs. Stryker is in seclusion just now, while Carroll boldly admits: "I am a Spirit-ist."

Following is the story in substance :

STOPPED HIM ON THE STEERT. Mr. Carroll is alleged to have first met his ntress in what appeared to be the most ceidental manner.

He was walking down Broadway one afternoon, his mind still full of brooding thoughts over the death of his beloved boy, when a delightfully charming young woman, beauti-ful of face but plainly attired, met and stopped him.

He was fifty years of age. She was only her was into years of ago. She was only hirty. Hers was a plump figure, and grace-ally rounded. Her cheeks were rich in onk and full. Her hair was dark and wavy, and her eyes were black, with long dark ashes and arched brows. Raising an alabaster hand and half pointing, she said:

'I see the spirit of your son over your head. He is speaking to you. He calls you 'Pop,' and says: 'Pop, why don't you listen to me?'"

The woman had addressed him by his own name, and the mourning father was instantly nterested. She told him that she was Mrs. Stryker, and invited him to visit her at her apartments in Brooklyn if he desired to com-nune with the spirit of his son.

HE WAS THEN AN INVESTIGATOR. HE WAS THEN AN INVESTIGATION.

He was what Spiritualists call an "investirator." This was directly in his line, and it salleged be called on the mysterious young woman. He found her in rather shably rooms on the upper floor of a small house not far distant from the store of Weeksler & Abraham, in Brooklyn, where her husband was em-ployed as a porter.

The Strykers had one child, and Mrs. The Strykers had one child, and Mrs. Stryker is quoted as contrasting their poverty of those days with the inxurious atmosphere in which they have since moved.

This was early in 1884. Mr. Carroll's son. Chifford, had died at the age of twenty-eight, n December, 1883, and was interred at Wood-awn. The father had brooded constantly over the death of the son and talked con-tautly among his friends, including several poritualists, regarding his loss.

"Cliff" had always addressed his father as 'Pop." and the boy's sayings were contantly quoted by his lamenting "Pop."

Mr. Carroll began to visit Mrs. Stryker in trooklyn, and besides frequent communications were received by "Pop" from "Cliff" letter through the medium.

Mr. Carroll lived with his wife at Yonkers, out the neighbors say that he spent much of his time at the shrine of Mrs. Stryker, receiving communication from his spirit son. He had now become a full-fiedged Spiritualist and was always one of the "circle" at Mrs. Stryker's Sunday morning receptions.

Late in 1884 Mrs. Stryker introduced the most daring and novel feature of her mediumship. The communications from Humship. The communications from Difford had along been of the most cheerful Simple and unpretentious, in accordance with her expressed desire and the wishes of the family, the funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Jay Gould, occurring this morning, were yet of a most impressive and touching nature.

The friends who came to attend the servies were evidently in sympathy with the family's desire for simplicity, many of them alighting from their carriages several blocks away and proceeding the rest of the distance

It was close to the hour of 10 o'clock when the choir of the West Presbyterian Church, consisting of Mrs. C. Anderson, contralto; Mrs. A. Hardegan, soprano; Mr. Bushnell, basso, and Mr. Dennison, tenor, under the direction of Organist Pa H. Schenker, stood at the foot of the staircase and sang the hymn, "Asleep in Jesus."

At the conclusion of the singing the Rev. Dr. Paxton read the burial service of the Episcopal Church, beginning with "I am the resurrection and the life," following it with an eloquent prayer.

The Rev. Dr. Roderick Terry, of the South Reformed Church, of which Mrs. Gould was a member, then offered up a prayer, full of comforting assurances to the bereaved ones who were present, and with a tender reference to the absent mother of Mrs. Gould, who is confined to her house by illness.

After the choir had sung "Abide with Me," Dr. Paxton announced that the services at the house were at an end, and that as the interment was to be private, only the

Miss Helen Gould, who was so actively identified with her mother in the charitable. works in which the latter was engaged, did not go to bed all last night, but kept a vigil over the remains after the other members of the family and even the servants had retired.

This devotion of the daughter is not more marked, however, than that of the sorrowing husband, looked upon by many as simply a cold man of business. He was constantly about the bedside of his wife up to the time of her death, signifying his deep affection by his every act.

DEEP MYSTERY. A TRAP WELL SET.

William Rinck Found on the Street Green Goods Man William Duncan With His Throat Cut.

He Left His Home to Draw Very Clever Work by Detective Money from the Bank.

Police.

The Victim Indicates by Signs That He Was Robbed and Cut.

The police of the East Fifty-first street station are endeavoring to unravel a mystery that at present seems as unfathomable as the deptns of the ocean.

A man was found in front of 215 East Fiftythird street by Policeman McDermott at 2.30 o'clock this morning with his throat cut from | Pa. ear to ear. The man was weak and faint from loss of the man was weak and main from loss of blood, and the officer led him to the station two blocks distant. There the man, with considerable difficulty, described himself as William Rinck, a German painter, fifty-two years of age and living at 240 East Fifty-fifth street.

Rinck appeared quite dazed, and when the Sergeant questioned him he said that he had been knocked down by two men, who cut his throat and then robbed him of every cut his throat and then robbed him of every cent he possessed.

He was unable to tell the time or locality where the attempted murder and robbery took place, and he insisted that he had a large sam of money with him.

He told the Serscant that he had gone downtown to a bank with a clerk employed by Guggenheimer & Untermeyer, Jawyers at Fifty-fift street and Third avenue.

Rinck was taken to Bellevne Hospital and his wounds dressed. At that time the physicians did not have much hope of saving his life.

An Evening World reporter investigated the case this morning, the police professing to know nothing beyond the facts above related.

At 240 East Fifty-fifth street the reporter found Mrs. Rinck. She is a neat-looking woman of perhaps thirty years, and her rooms were bright as a pin. Her eyes were red with weeping, and as she could speak very little English an interpreter had to be called in related.

The reporter learned that at 10 o'clock yes-The reporter learned that at 10 o'clock yesterday morning Rinck announced his intention of going to Guggenheimer & Untermeyer's office in order to get permission to draw some money. He had had no work since Christmas.

The present Mrs. Rinck is the painter's second wife. His first wife left Rinck some money, with the proviso that whenever he wished to draw any from the bank he should first inform the lawyers why and what he wanted the money for.

It was Rinck's intention yesterday morning to draw money enough to pay two months'

Rinck's wife accompanied the reporter to Bellevue Hospital. The man is in Ward 30 and under the care of Dr. Phillips. His wounds were dressed at 4 o'clock, but the physician had not paid the man a second visit when the reporter called, although Rinck is in a precarious condition. He cannot speak and is only half conscious.

'Did you do this yourself?' inquired the reporter.

A faint shake of the head in the negative was the reply.
"Were you robbed and cut?"

An affirmative shake indicated that he still stuck to his story. There was not a penny in his pockets when he was brought to the hos-

When Rinck was brought to the hospital when Kinck was brought to the corporate he conversed with a German patient who lay on a cot beside him. The latter said that Rinck told him that he had been struck on the head, cut and then robbed.

Detective Cuff is hard at work on the case and may clear up the mystery. Rinck is not a prisoner, as it is uncertain whether he inflicted the wound on himself or not.

The neighbors speak of him as a steady, kind man, and do not remember ever having seen him intoxicated. His recovery is doubtful.

AN "L" TICKET AGENT ROBBED.

Three Hundred Dollars Cone from His Trunk-A Boy Arrested.

Alexander Ross, an elevator boy employed at Denning's dry-goods house, Broadway and Tenth street, was held at the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning for stealing $300 in gold from the trunk of Henry Fairfax Brown, a ticket agent of the Sixth Avenue Elevated Railroad at Rector street. The robbery took place at Brown's rooms, 220 West Twenty-fourth street, where Ross was calling last Sunday. The stolen money was all in twenty-dollar gold pieces. Ross was found to have changed a twenty-dollar piece at a Seventh avenue restaurant, and that led to his arrest.

Seymour Has Five Wives Now.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
MONTREAL, Jan. 16.—A gross case of bigamy is reported at Cornwall. Silas E. Seymour, alias Wortman, alias S. E. Shaver, who represented himself as a traveller for T. S. Price, jeweller, nimself as a traveller for T. S. Price, loweller, of Montreal, made the acquaintance of Nellie Fish and invited her to a ball twelve miles distant. They did not return till the next day, and the girl was severely blamed by her father. Last Thursday night the pair were married at the Methodist parsonage by liev. Mr. Beynolds. They left for Morrisburg, where the man procured a rig from a livery stable. It has since been ascertained that Seymour has been married five times and that four of his wives are living.

Thirteenth Victim of Thin Ice.

ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. PROVIDENCE, R. L., Jan. 16.-The thirteenth victim of thin ice in this vicinity this winter was George Bloomfeld, of Saylesville, aged seven years. While on Scaot's Pond a half dozen boys went under the ice together and young Bloom-field failed to come to the surface. The body was not recovered. A son was born to Mrs, Bloomfeld about the time of the accident.

Walked Right Into It.

Eckstein in Philadelphia.

A Case Which So Far Baffles the An Appointment Made with a Victim Promptly Kept by the Officer.

> ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD, I PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16,-The Jersey City green-goods" man, known all over the country as "William Duncan, of 338 Montgomery street, Jersey City," is registered at at the Central Station as " Edward White, of New York." He cleverly fell into a trap laid for him, and was arrested by Detective Eck stein, who represented W. H. Agey, proprietor of the Agey Hotel, Tylersburg Station,

Mr. Agey was one of the thousands of mer in Pennsylvania who have been receiving seductively worded circulars, signed William Duncan, inviting them to go into the business of dealing in counterfeit money. Two weeks ago E. G. Cloud, proprietor of the Oakdale stock farm, near Unionville, Chester County, received a similar circular and sent t to a Philadelphia paper. An inquiry showed that "Duncan" represented showed that "Duncan" represented a particularly shrewd gang, not of green goods, but of confidence men, and that the Post-Office inspectors under Col. O'Leary were giving it some attention. Col. O'Leary said that the Department was co-operating with Anthony Comstock, who was looking after them in Jersey City. In the operation which led to the arrest yesterday, the intended victim conceived the idea of getting a detective to personate him. The other day Mayor Fitler received a letter from W. H. Agey, Tylersburg Station, Pa., inclosing a circular from the "green goods" men in Jersey City, which had been sent to him. In his letter to the Mayor Mr. Agey suggested the vory plan by which the man was captured. He said: "I thought it a good scheme to try and catch them, and a good way would be for me to telegraph that I would meet them, and then have a detective meet them in my place."

The circular Mr. Agey sent to the Mayor unformed him that the writer believes that he will make a good sgent to handle his "goods" at Tylersburg and vicinity. He urges Mr. Agey to think it over and let him know his decision as soon as possible if he desires to make dollars instead of pennies. He further instructs Mr. Agey, if he concludes to handle the "goods," to go to Philadelphia and stop at a hotel. Before leaving for Philadelphia he is to telegraph to the address inclosed, "I am on the way," and when he arrives in Philadelphia to telegraph him at what hotel he is stopping. The circular is signed "William Duncan, 338 Montgomery street, Jersey City, N. J.," and an extra slip is inclosed cautioning the receiver not to attempt to communicate with him by letter, but only by telegraph. This is a precaution taken to prevent the postal authorities from catching him.

On Monday night Detective Eckstein became William H. Agey for a short time, and had a telegram sent from Tylersburg and arrived here at 8.25 yesterday morning. He immediately sent another telegram to Duncan, saying: "I am on the way."

Then, to all intents and purposes, he too particularly shrewd gang, not

'Agey" and placed under arrest.

A WOMAN'S SCREAM

Saved John Welch from a Crowd of Lynchers.

Arrested at North Salem.

Nothing Like This Has Happened in the North for Years.

Profound Sensation Over the Arrests by the Pinkertons.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] LAWRENCE, Mass. , Jan. 16.—Thirteen wellknown residents of North Saiem, a retired hamlet twelve miles from this city, over the New Hampshire line, were arrested at an early hour this morning by Pinkerton detectives and a posse of Rockingham County deputy sheriffs, charged with an assault upon John C. Welch, of that place, on the night of Dec. 26 last.

The prisoners constitute a large portion of recently organized band of social " regulators," who, dissatisfied with the administration of justice, have taken into their own hands the of regulating the community according to their own ideas of right, regardless of the law and good order that has heretofore prevailed in the township.

It was 6 o'clock last night when Supt. John Cornish, of Pinkerton's Boston office, accompanied by Detective Hinde, Sheriff Moore and his deputy reached Lawrence.

They had spent the day in Exeter, where they had been closeted with District-Attorney Emery, who, under the counsel of the Attorney-General, had taken measures to protorney-General, had taken measures to pro-cure warrants for the men implicated in the affair by l'inkerton's evidence.

It took all day for the warrants to be got ready, and at 5 o'clock they were placed in Sheriff Moore's hands to serve.

Lawrence had been decided upon as the place from which operations should be begun and it was agreed that after the city had quieted down the officers should drive over to North Salem and arouse the prisoners from their beds, thereby reducing the possi-had quieted down the officers should drive over to North Salem and arouse the prisoners from their beds, thereby reducing the possibility of any escape.

Upon a later consulation in the Franklin House in this city it was discovered that under New Hamp-sire law the writ could not be served in the night, on which account the expedition was postponed until morning.

The party reached Salem, N. H., about 8 o'clock this morning, and found nine of the men wanted working in Woodbury's shoe shop. They were handcuffed without trouble and taken to Exeter, N. H., where they are held for examination. Here are the names: Wesley Felch, John Littlefield, Forest Hutchinson, Joseph Robinson, Frank Goodwin, Robert Kelly, Charles Chase, John McNeal and John Tracy.

The story of the crime in brief is as follows: Some years ago a daughter of Charles Hall, of North Salem, married a shoemaker named Monroe George, who lived in Danville. For a time they lived happily, but finally John G. Welch, a shoemaker, alienated the affections of Mrs. George from her husband. Welch and Mrs. George went to his father's to live, but were soon from her husband. Welch and Mrs. George went to his father's to live, but were soon driven from Danville by indignant citizens.

The couple then went to Mrs. George's father's in North Salem, where they were believed to be living as man and wife.

North Salem has about two hundred inhabitants, and the actions of Welch and Mrs. George aroused much indignation. An organization was formed to rid the hamlet of their pressure. rom her husband. Welch and Mrs. George ganization was formed to rid the hamlet of their presence.

On the night of Dec. 26 last a crowd of masked men went to Hall's house. A man named Wilson called Welch to the door. He was bemediately seized and dragged over the read for a half mile to an old pine tree, where the fifteen men held a council. A half-inch rope was placed around Welch's neck, and the spokes-men they began the charge of a serious crime man then began the charge of a serious crime against the frightened man. He was also charged with thieving from neighboring farmers. The prisoner denied the accusations.

The crowd wanted him to confess, but he

The crowd wanted him to contess, but he steadfastly refused.

Then, with clubs and sticks, they made a brutal assault, and finally the rope was tightened about his reck and the other end was ready to be pulled when up rushed old man He pleaded for Welch's life and was willing to be responsible for the prisoner.

thall was told to make himself scarce of he too would be strung up. The old man best a hasty retreat.

Welch thought surely his time had come.

Two of the men approached him with a pail between them which contained lamp-black. They blacked his face and hands and a portion of his body, until he resembled a peerre. Whatever they intended to do further was stopped at this moment by the sound of a shrill voice near at hand. For an instant all of the "regulators" were intently listening. They were off their guard and Welch saw his chance. Like a fash he dashed between two of the men, one of whom he had recognized.

The whole crowd started in pursuit, but their efforts were useless.

He sped along over the road to Danville, and the county authorities were notified. ---A YOUNG GIRL'S PERIL.

Beautiful Miss Dowling Choked by a Ruffian In the Street at Elizabeth. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD,]

HE SCARED ST. LOUIS COURTESANS. "The Zer," an Imitator of "Jack the Ripper," Run Down by the Police.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 16.-Since New Year's Day the courtesans of this city have been frightened by a letter-writer who signed him-town, and at least fifty of them have fallen into the hands of the police.

In the letters the women were threatened with "swift judgment from on high," and the writer intimated that if the women addressed did not reform he would give them a little of "Jack the lipper's "methods.

The demi-monde have been in a state of frenzy, and every day has seen some of their number besseching the Chief of Police to rundown "The Zer."

After a long hunt the Chief has finally succeeded in arresting a religious crank named William Brennan and a woman who was associated with him. There is no doubt whatever that Brennan is "The Zer."
